

This technical drawing shows a building plan. A rectangular structure, possibly a classroom or office, is divided into a grid of smaller rectangular rooms. A dashed line connects one of the rooms to a circular feature, which is partially visible on the left side of the drawing. The drawing is oriented vertically, with the rectangular structure at the bottom and the circular feature at the top. The drawing is a black and white line drawing, typical of architectural plans.

9